Re Tel Aviv letter, 9/10/73.

The September 13, 1973, edition of the "Jerusalem Post," an English language newspaper published in Jerusalem, Israel, contained an article captioned "Action on U.S. Extradition Bid." The above article noted that the Attorney General (Israel) filed an application at the District Court on September 12, 1973, to declare subject extraditable. The article further noted that the United States has requested subject's extradition and furnished some background concerning his stay in Israel and the charges of his having placed a fire bomb in the offices of Sol Hurok in New York in January, 1972. Subject, according to the article, has been free on bail, has been allowed to continue his service in the Israel Defense Forces, but bail was increased to 50,000 pounds and he was forbidden to leave Israel.

On October 10, 1973, [redacted] U.S. Embassy, Tel Aviv, advised that he has no additional significant data concerning the status of subject's extradition at this time.
